

ask a guru @your library™

Go ahead—try to stump them. Your librarians are continually learning new skills and training for the latest technologies. If they don't know the answer to every question, you can be sure they know how to find it. Librarians are a great resource when you need help.

So the next time you get stumped, just ask a guru.